Background and Methodology

Patrick E. Gonzales graduated magna cum laude from the University of Baltimore with a degree in political science.

His career began in the mid 1980s as an analyst with Mason-Dixon Opinion Research. Mr. Gonzales helped develop, craft and implement election surveys and exit polls for Baltimore's WMAR-TV Channel 2.

Patrick Gonzales has polled and analyzed well over a thousand elections in Maryland and across the country since that time. His polling in the 2014 Maryland gubernatorial election foreshadowed Larry Hogan's victory on Election Day.

During an interview at WBAL 1090 AM radio in Baltimore, Maryland on October 27, 2016, Mr. Gonzales was one of the very few pollsters in the nation to state publicly that Donald Trump would win the 2016 presidential election.

This poll was conducted by Gonzales Research & Media Services from October 1st through October 6th, 2018. A total of 806 registered voters in Maryland, who indicated that they are likely to vote in the November 2018 general election, were queried by live telephone interviews, utilizing both landline and cell phone numbers. A cross-section of interviews was conducted throughout the state, reflecting general election voting patterns.

The margin of error (MOE), per accepted statistical standards, is a range of plus or minus 3.5 percentage points. If the entire population was surveyed, there is a 95% probability that the true numbers would fall within this range.

Synopsis

Ten days and counting until the launch of early voting, a month before Election Day, and the campaigns are heading into their final stages. There are odd political winds gusting across the country and here at home, from Alaska's outer wilderness to our own downy oshun's shores...elephants leaning left and donkeys listing right. Oh yeah, it's election time.

Free State voters are on the doorstep of reelecting a GOP governor for the first time since many liked Ike, and we all loved Lucy. If the election were held today, incumbent Larry Hogan would win in a romp, trouncing his Democratic opponent by a solid double-digit margin.

Statewide, 54% of likely general election voters say they are going to vote for Hogan, the Republican, 36% say they are going to vote for Ben Jealous, the Democrat, 2% say they'll vote for either Libertarian candidate Shawn Quinn or Green Party candidate Ian Schlakman, and 8% are undecided.

Hogan's capturing a third of the registered Democrats in the state, 1-in-5 black voters, racking up huge margins in the Baltimore suburbs, the eastern, western, and southern parts of the Old Line State, and running dead even in traditionally liberal Montgomery County.

It's not yet quite time to call in the Chesapeake Bay Retrievers and extinguish the campfire, but the hunt's end is clearly drawing nigh. Since his surprisingly imposing victory in the June Democratic primary, first-time candidate Ben Jealous' efforts to create electoral enthusiasm beyond his progressive base have produced bupkis. In the worst of times - the very worst political environment imaginable - a Democrat in Maryland begins the race with 40 percent...Mr. Jealous has not yet reached that minimum threshold a little more than a week before early voting commences.

The Jealous campaign held a press conference a few months ago and laid out a "path to victory" scenario (where, ironically, it felt compelled to share its own internal poll that had Jealous trailing significantly). The storyline set forth at the presser was that an aggressive grassroots effort was going to mobilize thousands of new progressive voters to the polls. There most certainly is an impressive grassroots effort for Jealous underway right now, and it will be interesting to see to what extent this determination can translate disaffection, capped by Brett Kavanaugh's recent confirmation and seating on the Supreme Court, into hard votes.

The unusual winds seem to be blowing against incumbent Attorney General Brian Frosh's reelection campaign at the moment. Statewide, 43% of Maryland voters say they'd vote for Frosh if the election were held today, 34% say they'd vote for Republican challenger Craig Wolf, and 23% are undecided.

Frosh's margin today is significantly less than it was a couple of months ago and down 20 points from a public poll released in September. But this is still blue Maryland, and it is hard to imagine Democrat Frosh being defeated, an upset that would shake the walls of quaint Annapolis to their very foundation.

Gonzales October 2018 Poll Results

Governor Larry Hogan

One month to go and Larry Hogan remains extremely popular with his Maryland constituents - 67% have a favorable opinion of Hogan (44% “very favorable” and 23% “somewhat favorable”), while only 11% have an unfavorable opinion of the Hogan (5% “very unfavorable” and 6% “somewhat unfavorable”), 18% have a neutral opinion of him, and 3% say they don’t recognize the name.

By party:

- 86% of Republicans have a favorable opinion (72% “very favorable” and 14% “somewhat favorable”), while 5% have an unfavorable opinion.

- 59% of Democrats have a favorable opinion (32% “very favorable” and 27% “somewhat favorable”), while 16% have an unfavorable opinion.

- 63% of unaffiliated voters have a favorable opinion (36% “very favorable” and 27% “somewhat favorable”), while 8% have an unfavorable opinion.

Sixty-seven percent...70%...74%...71%...75%...71%...these are Governor Larry Hogan’s job approval numbers in the six previous poll we have conducted since his election in 2014.

Today, 72% of Maryland voters approve of the job Hogan is doing in Annapolis (42% “strongly approve” and 30% “somewhat approve”), while 18% disapprove (7% “strongly disapprove” and 11% “somewhat disapprove”), with 10% giving no response.

Hogan Job Approval	Approve	Disapprove
Men	74%	17%
Women	71%	19%
White	68%	18%
African-American	53%	29%
Democrat	67%	23%
Republican	84%	11%
Unaffiliated	69%	14%

Ben Jealous

Democratic gubernatorial nominee Ben Jealous has been unable to engender any electoral excitement with Maryland voters beyond his base. Statewide, 36% have a favorable opinion of Jealous (25% “very favorable” and 11% “somewhat favorable”), while 34% have an unfavorable opinion of him (27% “very unfavorable” and 7% “somewhat unfavorable”), 21% have a neutral opinion of Jealous, and 9% do not recognize his name.

Democrat	51%	22%
Republican	12%	63%
Unaffiliated	28%	23%
White	28%	44%
African-American	65%	7%

Governor Election

If the election were held today, Republican incumbent Larry Hogan would rout his Democratic opponent. Statewide, 54% back Hogan, 36% support Jealous, 2% say they’ll vote for either Libertarian candidate Shawn Quinn or Green Party candidate Ian Schlakman, and 8% are undecided.

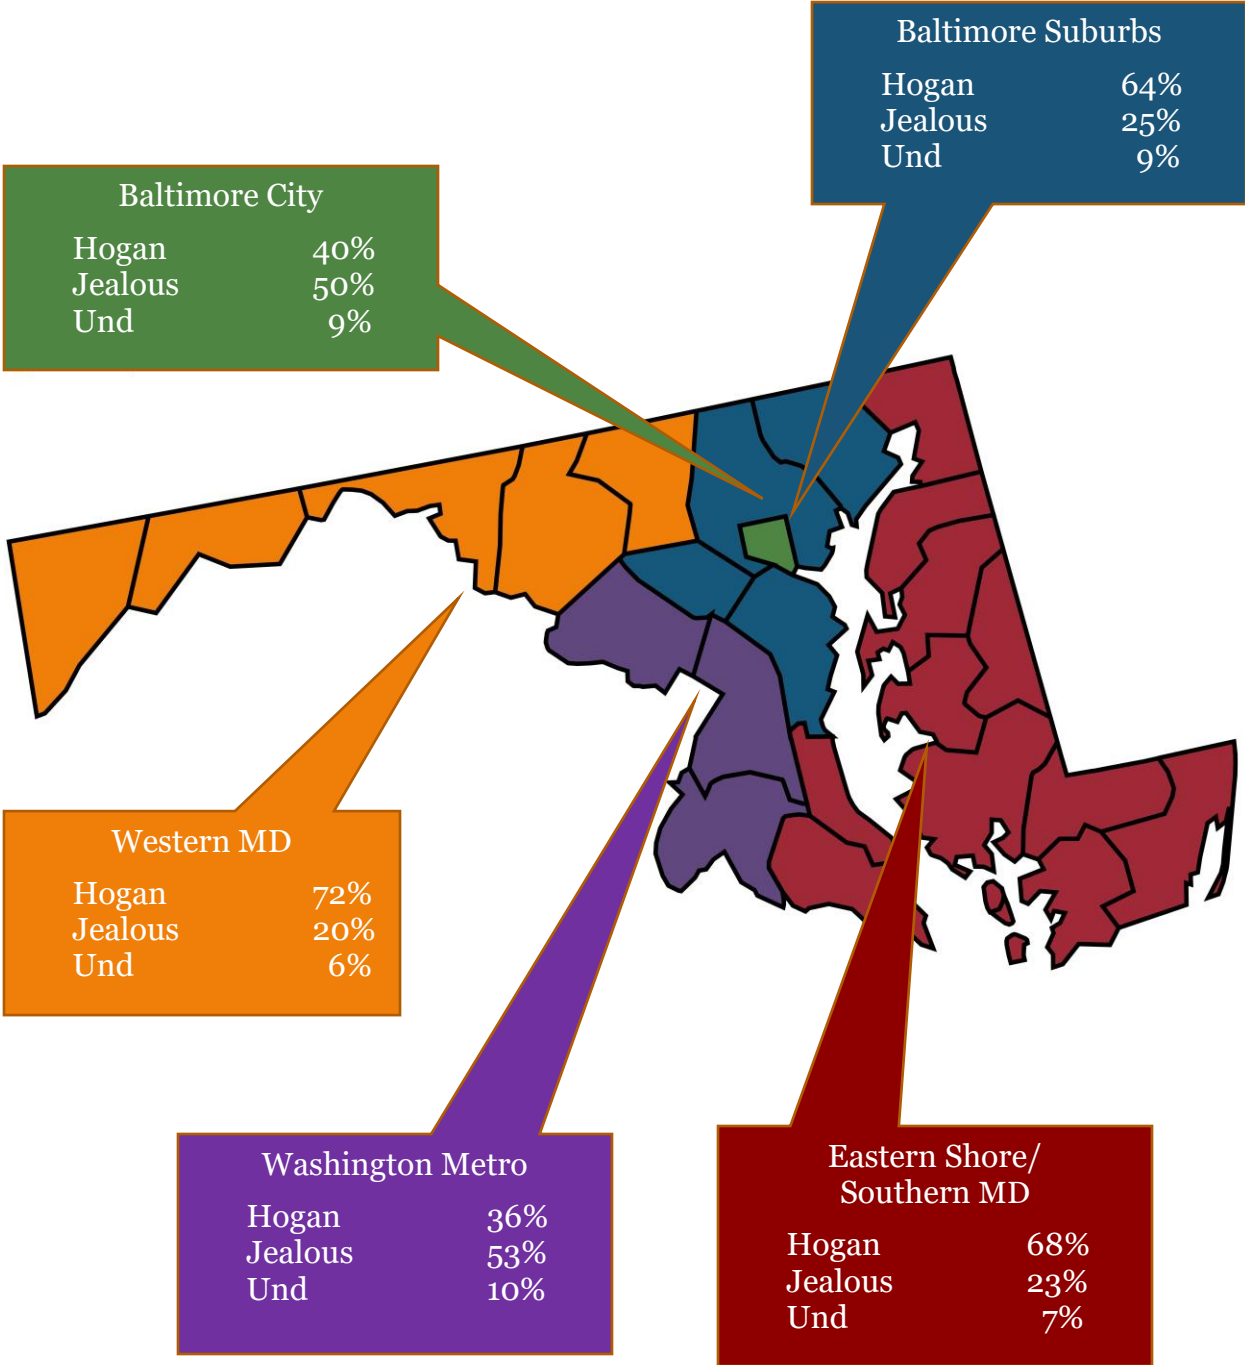

Hogan leads Jealous 91%-6% among Republicans and 52% to 25% among unaffiliated voters. Hogan captures 58% of men and 49% of women; 65% of white voters; 52% of voters under the age of fifty-five and 55% of those fifty-five and older.

Sixty-one percent of voters in Anne Arundel County support Hogan, 63% in Baltimore County, and 79% in Harford County; 68% on the eastern shore and southern Maryland; 72% in western Maryland.

Hogan is running exactly even with Jealous in progressive Montgomery County.

Jealous is up among Democrats, 55% to 35%; African-Americans, 70%-21%; in Prince George’s County, 64%-23%; and in Baltimore City, 50% to 40%.

Governor Election

Attorney General Election

Something's in the air. Incumbent Maryland Attorney General Brian Frosh lags noticeably behind where he was just a couple of months ago.

Statewide, 43% say they will vote for Democrat Frosh in the election for Maryland Attorney General, while 34% say they'll vote for his Republican challenger, Craig Wolf, and 23% are undecided.

AG Election	Frosh	Wolf	Undecided
Men	38%	37%	25%
Women	47%	31%	22%

The perception (be it fair or unfair) that one has lost touch with his or her constituents can be the kiss of death in American politics. It happened to George H.W. Bush in early 1992 when he outwardly appeared to not know what a grocery scanner was...it happened to House majority leader Eric Cantor in 2014 when he seemingly became disconnected from his district just a few miles across the Potomac...and it even happened to popular Cumberland tavern owner Cas Taylor here in Maryland after he'd been Speaker for eight years.

Concerning the Emoluments Clause, offshore drilling, the tax reform law, air pollution, attempts to sabotage Obamacare, for-profit colleges, and other examples, one can easily argue the merits of each case, but what is not in dispute is that Attorney General Frosh has spent a sizable chunk of time and effort the past 18 months suing the federal government and, at times, appearing obsessed with battling the Trump administration.

Perhaps Maryland voters want the Maryland Attorney General to shift his focus a tad to issues more within the confines of Old Line borders.

Donald Trump

President Donald Trump has had an ever so slight uptick in his numbers here in Maryland. Statewide, 39% have a favorable opinion of Trump (30% “very favorable” and 9% “somewhat favorable”), while 53% have an unfavorable opinion of him (45% “very unfavorable” and 8% “somewhat unfavorable”), and 9% have a neutral opinion.

Forty-one percent (up 5 points since August) of voters approve of the job Trump is doing as president (29% “strongly approve” and 12% “somewhat approve”), while 55% disapprove (48% “strongly disapprove” and 7% “somewhat disapprove”), and 4% offer no opinion.

Direction of the State

Among general election voters, 64% think that things in Maryland are moving in the right direction, while 20% say things are off on the wrong track, and 16% give no opinion.

Direction of State	Right Direction	Wrong Track
Men	66%	19%
Women	62%	21%
White	67%	17%
African-American	57%	27%
Democrat	63%	21%
Republican	70%	18%
Unaffiliated	56%	20%

Sixty-six percent of those who think things in the state are moving in the right direction are voting for Hogan, while 62% of those who think things are off on the wrong track are voting for Jealous

United States-Mexico-Canada-Agreement (USMCA)

Among Marylanders, 64% favor the recently negotiated trade deal between the United States, Mexico, and Canada (42% “strongly favor” and 22% “somewhat favor”), while 13% oppose the new trade deal to replace NAFTA (8% “strongly oppose” and 5% “somewhat disapprove”), and 23% offer no opinion yet on the deal.

Attitudes by gender, race and party:
